

Lok Fu Plaza Introduces Special Halloween-themed Food

Visitors to Lok Fu Plaza Dark Mansion can get their fill of fear and food

For the fourth consecutive year, Lok Fu Plaza’s haunted house is Hong Kong’s only themed haunted house offering free admission. Lok Fu Plaza Dark Mansion was designed based on one of the top 10 haunted places in Asia, the abandoned 18th-century colonial Villa Nabila in Malaysia, and it will create a whole new level of horror that will test visitors’ bravery.

A frightening trip through Lok Fu Plaza Dark Mansion will make even the hardest souls hungry. To help visitors get their fill of fear and food, during the Halloween promotion period (19 September to 31 October 2014), Lok Fu Plaza will partner with food and beverage outlets to present special Halloween-themed food. The spooky delicacies include “3-Coloured Pumpkin Spirits” spaghetti, terrifying “Bloody Hell Pizza” and the dessert dish “Dark Mountain RIP”. The full series of must-try Halloween treats are below.
